Evolving FAQ on our public site

The COVID-19 situation continues to evolve on a daily basis, and we want to make it as quick and easy as possible for you to get updates on any impacts it has on your group insurance plan. For this reason, we have posted an FAQ on our public site, which we are constantly updating as developments occur.

Our top priority during this crisis is the health and well-being of our clients and plan members. The FAQ can be your primary source of information on the situation, but, as always, we are here to support you; feel free to contact your service representative if you have questions about your group insurance plan not addressed in the FAQ.

We also encourage you to consult the coronavirus web page the Government of Canada has set up with comprehensive information on the coronavirus including latest updates, symptoms and treatment, prevention and risks, and advice on preparedness and caring for those who are ill.
